The house offers stunning sea and mountain views and is located just 400m from the beautiful sandy beach and the crystal blue waters of the Libyan Sea. Supermarket and tavernas are just a few hundred meters away and the village about 1km.

Frangokastello is located on the south coast of Crete, about 12 km east of Sfakia (or Hora Sfakion). It has an extensive, sheltered and gently-shelving sandy beach, which has provided the basis for a low-key tourist industry in recent years. There is an impressive castle that was built by the Venetians and has a lot of history. Tourist accommodation is scattered over the flat plain around the castle, but the area's relative remoteness has discouraged major development. The international airport of Chania is about a 2-hour drive.

The house is perfect for a quiet holiday in an area offering stunning views over the Libyan Sea and the south coast.
